

CHILD FIND

LAVCA has the responsibility to identify children who have special needs by making parents aware of how to make a referral if they suspect their child has a disability. Parents should contact their assigned teacher or the LAVCA office for further information or assistance. LAVCA teachers have the responsibility to make a referral if they suspect a student may have a disability. A conference will be held with special education staff, the general education teacher, and the student's parent to determine if services are appropriate. A parent may refuse special education services at any time.
